Emerging modes of political protest: paths to political inclusion

8th June / UAB

WORKSHOP

“Political participation and political inclusion”

The purpose of this workshop is to present and discuss some of the findings of the project “Emerging modes of political protest: paths to political inclusion”. The main purpose of the project has been to contribute to the understanding of emerging modes of political participation in contemporary advanced democracies, with a special focus on their implications for political inclusion. The workshop includes a combination of the projects’ papers with contributions from external world-renowned academics working in the field.

The workshop is organized into two panels. “Inequality and participation” includes papers dealing with how socio-economic inequality is translated into political inequality. “Modes of participation” incorporates papers dealing with different forms in which political engagement can take place and their implications.
